

One day Paul and a friend named Silas went to a city called Philippi and a young girl became a follower of Jesus. She used to make lots of money for her Masters by telling fortunes. Her angry Masters told the City Officials that Paul and Silas were telling people to change their ways and serve God instead. Paul and Silas were jailed but during the night they sang worship songs to God and an Earthquake came. The jailer was going to kill himself because he thought everyone had escaped, but Paul told him not to as they hadn't run off. Then the Jailer and all his family turned to Jesus also.
